Effects of Swachh Bharat Abhiyan in India

The need for maintaining right cleanliness, sanitation and hygiene in any community cannot be gainsaid. It is perhaps the most basic step towards keeping diseases at bay. To promote robust maintenance of cleanliness, the Government of India rolled its flagship scheme Swachh Bharat Abhiyan on October 2, 2014. The programme covers 4041 statutory towns of the country to clean their roads, streets and other public infrastructure. On the day of the launch, Prime Minister Narendra Modi himself wielded broom and cleaned a public road. The Swachh Bharat campaign has been dubbed as the country's biggest cleanliness drive ever. The President of India, Mr. Pranab Mukherjee requested all to participate in the campaign and spend a minimum of 100 hours in this drive annually. This campaign also garnered full support by the Indian Army, Indian Air Force, Border Security Force, Media houses and various civil society organizations.

A whopping 3 million Indian students and government employees took part in this event. With PM Narendra Modi being at the helm, the programme got a great kick-off and he was required to nominate 9 well-known personalities for the campaign. The personalities further nominated 9 more people, which formed a chain of people participating in the campaign. Since then it has been actively carried forward through the participation of many influential famous people from all walks of life.
